DETAILED ACTION

Drawings

1. The drawings are objected to because the top margin is too small. A proposed drawing correction or corrected drawings are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

2. Claims 1-9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as containing subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to enable one skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and/or use the invention. Claim 1 recites "when said means for directing gas from the fuel tank to the atmosphere is actuated"; however, the disclosed invention operates timed measurement when no gas is directed to the atmosphere. This rejection could be overcome by removal of both instances of the phrase in claim 1.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

3. Claims 1-6 and 9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Williams (US 5,467,641). Williams discloses the claimed invention, a gas tank leak tester comprising pressure source, pressure gauge, reference orifice, vent valve, orifice valve, and microprocessor for valve control, time measurement/comparison and output signaling. Predetermined pressure values are used to determine points at which time is sampled to determine leak amounts. The time for decay between predetermined pressure values is determined first for closed tank and then for reference orifice. See abstract; Figure 1; columns 3-4.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 7, 8 and 10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Williams. Williams teaches the claimed invention as detailed above except for voltage processing and LED indication. However, the examiner takes Official Notice of the use of voltage processing in microprocessors and of the use of LEDs for signal indication in error conditions by electronic control units, and such use in the system of Williams would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made. With respect to claim 10, Williams teaches the claimed invention except for repetition of test cycles. The examiner takes Official Notice of repetition of testing and it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to make multiple test cycles.

Conclusion

5. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Kolb (US 5,509,296) discloses fuel tank leak measurement through measurement of the time for pressure decay between predetermined values. The pressure decay technique is disclosed by Rapson (US 4,272,985) and Boone (US 5,412,978). The use of reference orifices in fuel tank leak measurement is disclosed by Itakura (JP 11351078 A), Okuma (JP 2001012318 A and US 6,321,728 B1), and Harris (US 6,327,898 B1).
